Pen-names / Alexander Belovezhsky, Alexander Karpenko, Alexander Chakha, Shura Belochkin, Alex Zero. M. – S.-Pb.: C.G.I., 2011. — 224 p. — ISBN 978-5-98712-072-9.

This book plunges us into a peculiar world where time, space and human consciousness are literally torn apart into smallest the bits. The author reveals himself through various characters cohabiting him and represented by various personalities that of a Poet, a Logician, a Tanker, a Number-theorist, an Alconaut, a Cosmologist, a Philosopher and a travelling through Everett's worlds Wanderer. This polyphonic nature of a modern man, this unique ability of his to create as possible impossible worlds make us to wonder if the answer to the many mysteries of the Universe should not be looked for in the depths of human consciousness.